The aim of this exciting session is to explore topics relative to:

- monitoring volcanoes and forecasting their eruptions
- understanding volcanoes interaction with Earth's atmospheric and surface processes
- analysing the relationship between volcanoes and the millions of people that live nearby in terms of resources, hazard, resilience, etc.

If you study volcanoes, or if they get in the way in your research and you are trying to figure out why, then look no further, this is the session to submit your abstract to!
